Subject: RE: RCE submissions

The attorney does not have to request that an after-final amendment be entered in order for the after-final amendment to be considered a submission for an RCE. All after-final amendments are automatically entered when a RCE is filed unless the applicant/attorney requests that the amendment(s) not be entered.

Subject: RCE submissions

Good morning;

I have a RCE and the form does not request entry of the after-final amendment. The notes that I have, say that the attorney has to request the entry of the amendment in order that the RCE be proper. I am being told by the examiner that he understands that the amendments are automatically entered whether the attorney requests this or not. I put in The RCE as being improper because there is no submission. Can you help me?
